Drs. Michael Jones, Brent Mullins and Ed Muir are pleased to welcome their newest associate, Dr. Lin Chen, to The Jones Clinic

The Jones Clinic welcomes Lin Chen, M.D., as a full-time physician at the clinic's Germantown office. Dr. Chen is triple board certified in internal medicine, medical oncology and hematology. She worked as an attending physician at St. Louis Oncology Associates, St. Anthony's Hospital in St. Louis, MO., before deciding to join The Jones Clinic in August.

"We're very pleased to be expanding the clinic, and Dr. Chen is a wonderful addition," says C. Michael Jones, M.D., F.A.C.P. "She has extensive experience in research, and she is dedicated to her patients' complete wellbeing."

Dr. Chen received her Bachelor of Science degree in Microbiology from the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville, and her Medical Degree at University of Arkansas College of Medicine in Little Rock. She is a member of the American Medical Association and associate members in the American Society of Clinical Oncology and the American Society of Hematology. She has volunteered her time with Doctors without Borders in Monterrey, Mexico, where she set up health clinics.

"I was drawn to The Jones Clinic because along with a focus on research, they provide a variety of patient support services," Dr. Chen says. "I was impressed by the clinic's community outreach efforts and the number of public awareness and educational programs the current doctors promote. I'm looking forward to close patient involvement, which not all clinics offer."

The Jones Clinic, an oncology and hematology clinic with locations in Germantown, TN, and New Albany, MS, was founded by C. Michael Jones, M.D., F.A.C.P., an Anderson Associate with MD Anderson Cancer Center. The clinic is one of 16 in the nation to receive the Quality Oncology Practice Initiative (QOPI) certification, and patients benefit from clinical trials through the clinic's partnership with the Cancer Trials Support Unit. The dedicated staff at The Jones Clinic offers patients the most cutting-edge research, while focusing on one-on-one personal care. www.thejonesclinic.com
